JOHNSON GENEALOGY

BY

GEORGE D. JOHNSON

The name JOHN, from whence, through the variations of "John, his son," "John's son," comes JOHNSON (the pronoun and possessive having been dropped), is, with a varied orthography found in all European languages, and in America, with the influx of many foreigners of that name, JOHNSON, bids fair to supersede that of SMITH, in being the most numerously represented name in the English language.

The men of this name have given good account of themselves; have possessed sterling qualities of character, and have attained distinction in every walk of human effort.

ANCESTORS AND DESCENDANTS

Freedom, Waldo County, Maine.

1. EDMUND JOHNSON¹, was twenty-three years old, a carpenter by trade, when in 1635 he, and wife Mary, came from Romsey to this country; sailing from London, in the Ship James.

They were residents in Hampton, New Hampshire, as early as 1639, where in June, 1640, he was granted a house lot, which extended to the common way; and in September, "B^{ro}: Crosse wth five other brethren are appointed to set out unto E^dm: Johnson a little ground about his house; not prejudicing the beasts going to drink at the Runne."

Besides this, was a small grant on the other side of the road, "about thirty rod, which his house stand of (on) in the meeting-house gree; laying near upon a square, joyn- ing up to a common way towards the east, otherwise the green goeth round about it;" and on February 23, 1646, three shares in the cow-common.

2. JAMES JOHNSON², [Edmund¹], third son of Edmund¹, and Mary Johnson, born in Hampton about 1643, married, March 26, 1673, Sarah, daughter of Robert and Elizabeth Daniels, who died in January, 1718. He lived on the easterly end of his father's lot; was a millwright by trade, and spent several years in Maine.

A document signed by him December 28, 1670, and others up to April 5, 1685, gives his residence as of Hampton again; others up to 1700 as of Kittery; but his death is entered on the town records of Hampton, where he probably died, June 16, 1715.

He left no will, but his heirs made a divisional deed of the property, according to his known wishes.

3. JAMES JOHNSON, JR.^s, [James^s, Edmund^s], first child of James^s, and Sarah (Daniels) Johnson, born in Hampton, February 4, 1677, married, November 10, 1698, Elizabeth, daughter of John and Elizabeth (Ward) Mason, born in Hampton, May 5, 1674.

He settled on a part of his father's home lot, and died there, November 6, 1752.

4. BENJAMIN JOHNSON^s, [James, Jr.^s, James^s, Edmund^s], second child and first son of James, Jr.^s, and Elizabeth (Mason) Johnson, born at Hampton about 1702, married, June 22, 1727, Bethia, first child of John and Bethia (Tuck) Marston, born in Hampton, Nov. 17, 1704.

He moved to Epping, and records show that he purchased land in 1743 of Israel Gillman, the deed being witnessed by Joseph Hall and Thomas Tounge; which land he conveyed to his sons James and Benjamin, the deeds being dated January 22, 1784, and recorded in May, 1793, between which his death probably occurred; but the exact time, or that of his wife's, is not known.

He was of good standing in the community, being elected surveyor of highways and fences; and assessor in 1748-9; constable in 1757.

5. JOHN JOHNSON^s, [Benjamin^s, James, Jr.^s, James^s, Edmund^s], sixth child and third son of Benjamin^s, and Bethia (Marston) Johnson, was born in 1740, baptized in Hampton June 14, 1741; married, first, Abigail, daughter of Bradbury and Elizabeth (Badger) Morrison, born in Epping, August 5, 1744, who died at Sanbornton, in 1777; married second, April 23, 1778, in Sanbornton, by Reverend Joseph Woodman, Congregational Minister, (his first in the town, and the first entered on the town records), Molly, fifth daughter of Elisha and Lydia (Norris) Smith, born in Epping, January 23, 1763; she died in Sanbornton, September 12, 1826; he died there May 24, 1825.

He bought twenty acres of land at Epping of Joseph Taylor Wear on February 12, 1765, which he sold to Stephen Clark, on July 9, 1774, and it is probable that he moved to Sanbornton soon after, as his signature to the deed, and that of his wife, Abigail, were acknowledged at Sanbornton; but the first record of him there is his signature to the "Association Test," which bears date of July 3, 1776; "one day before the signing of the Declaration of Independence at Philadelphia;" and is as follows:

"To show our determination in joyning our American Brethren, and in defending the Lives, Liberties, and Properties of the Inhabitants of the United Colonies, We, the Subscribers, do solomley engage and promis, at the Risque of our lives and fortunes, with ARMS, to oppose the Hostile Proceedings of the British Fleet and Armies against the United Colonies."

Which document is recorded in the "Test Book" at Concord, page 257.

He purchased of the proprietors of Sanbornton, lot four, of the first division, in the eastern part of the town, near the Great Bay.

He was a carpenter by trade, and had much to do with constructing many of the houses in the town; and was appointed a committee to inspect the building of a gallery in the church; several of his descendants becoming distinguished workers in that line.

Of his large family, the only one surviving in 1877 was Mrs. Sally Braun; cheerful and intelligent, who gave valuable aid to the author of the History of Sanbornton.

"Her first husband's name was Flanders, and a pewter teaspoon marked with her initials, S. F., is in possession of Mrs. Ada E. Davis, of Ault, Colorado."

6. ELISHA JOHNSON⁶, [John⁵, Benjamin⁴, James, Jr.³, James², Edmund¹], second child and first son of John⁵, and second wife Molly (Smith) () Johnson, born in Sanbornton, New Hampshire, December 14, 1782, married by Reverend John Crockett (Freewill Baptist Minister), May 29, 1803, Elizabeth, second daughter of John and Molly (Bean) () (Huse) (), born in Sanbornton October 2, 1785, who died in Sanbornton April 2, 1805; married second by Reverend John Crockett, February 6, 1806, to Rachel Huse, (sister of first wife), born in Sanbornton August 3, 1787.

He learned the blacksmith trade of Bradstreet Moody, at Sanbornton Bridge (Franklin), and moved to Lincolnville, Maine, (then called Duck Trapp), soon after his second marriage, but this was not long to be an abiding place, as he a little later moved to the town of Knox in the same county; but his handicraft was more in demand in the village of Freedom, where came to him all that a busy and capable craftsman could do; his skill as a mechanic advertised him far and near, and his ability was always in demand.

An English Company operating on the St. Croix river at Mill-town, New Brunswick, sought his assistance in building of mills there.

Completing these, he was called again to a more distant part of the Province; answering this call, through the dense forest, he went to the Miramichia river and assisted in building the First Mill on that great navigable water, a Pioneer to assist in opening up a forest country to commerce of the world.

Subsequent to this he was engaged by, and in the employ of General Vesie, of Old Town, Maine, and for a long time had the care and upkeep of his mills at that place.

Retiring from this, he began the manufacture of farming and edge tools at Freedom, rounding out the center of a busy and useful life; completing the time between about 1808 and 1820, when he bought a farm about one mile west of the village, which by industry and frugality he greatly improved, bringing into a high state of cultivation, spending the declining years of his life caring for the lighter details connected with its cultivation; having been engaged in garden work during the forenoon, and dying peacefully in the evening of August 27, 1855; his wife Rachel dying there June 16, 1865, and they are both buried in Freedom village cemetery; handing down to their posterity the influence of a busy, well spent life.

That one life is complete alone, is never proven! In his long and useful life Elisha Johnson had a co-partner, a helpmeet in every sense of the word, in Rachel Huse Johnson. "Children and Grandchildren rise up, to call her blessed."

40. ELISHA JOHNSON, JR.⁷, (10) [Elisha^s, John^s, Benjamin^s, James, Jr.^s, James^s, Edmund¹], fourth child and second son of Elisha^s, and Rachel (Huse) Johnson, born in Freedom, Waldo county, Maine, February 2, 1812; married at Unity, Waldo county, April —, 1837, by Reverend John True, Elizabeth Clark, born February 2, 1812, who died in Freedom, June 16, 1870; he died, December 9, 1880, and both are buried in Freedom cemetery.

"The Home Boy," to stay with and care for the old folks; a good farmer and citizen all his life.

In some of his earlier years he supplemented farming by operating in the lumber woods, on the "west branch" of the Penobscott river, and later nearer home. Filling town and some county offices acceptably. Remembered by his children as a kind, indulgent father.

Elizabeth (Clark) Johnson, the faithful wife and Christian mother, endeared to family, and all that knew her.

CHILDREN, BORN IN FREEDOM.

41. DAVID B. JOHNSON^s, (45) born August 10, 1837; married Frances Giles.

42. HENRIETTA L. JOHNSON^s, born July 5, 1840.

43. MARTHA A. JOHNSON^s, born February 14, 1842; married first, in Freedom, December, 1872, William S., son of Edward and Ann (Sibley) Fuller, born in Freedom, who died in Freedom, January, 1890, and is buried in Freedom cemetery; married second, in Freedom, March 2, 1892, Job, son of Edward and Mary (Clement) Vose, who died at Knox, March 6, 1906; buried at Montville, Waldo county, North cemetery.

44. CHARLES E. JOHNSON^s, (46) born March 25, 1846; married Jennie Rebecca Severence.

45. DAVID BARRON JOHNSON^s, (41) first child of Elisha, Jr., and Elizabeth (Clark) Johnson, born in Freedom, August 10, 1838; married at Thorndike, March 8, 1863, Frances, daughter of Stephen and Louisa (West) Giles, born at Thorndike, June 18, 1842.

To him fell the care of the old folks and the homestead. How faithfully and well this was done, kindred and friends can testify.

Received his education in the public schools of his native town, Bloomfield and Freedom Academies; taught many terms in the public schools of the county; served many terms on school boards, and other town offices; master of the local Grange for a number of years; also a member of the State Grange. Died at Freedom, October 10, 1899; buried in Freedom cemetery.

Frances (Giles) Johnson, the faithful wife, and companion in his life work, and last long and painful sickness.

God's blessing must follow such a wife and mother.

CHILDREN, BORN AT FREEDOM.

1. Frank W. Johnson^o, born June 19, 1864; is a farmer on the old homestead; married Carrie, daughter of Job C. and Amanda (Weed) Vose, born at Knox, April 3, 1866. Vose, formerly husband of her sister, deceased. Child, born at Houlton, Aroostook county: 1, Edward Donald Vose^o, born August 25, 1912.

46. CHARLES E. JOHNSON^s, (44) born at Freedom, March 25, 1846; married at Lowell, Middlesex county, Massachusetts, August 2, 1875, Jennie Rebecca, daughter of Reuben and Mary Severence, born at Passadumkeag, Penobscot county, Maine, October 17, 1848.

Few men have seen a more busy, active life; he grew to manhood on the farm; was educated in the public schools; read law, and was admitted to the bar in Waldo county and practiced in the courts nearly two years, making a fine record, but his health failed and doctors said he must quit, so he took up manufacturing, which came naturally to him, and was easy; and he advanced from charge of work to charge of Old Colony Mills, Chiltonville, Massachusetts; and from there went to Nova Scotia, and started the first duck mill in Canada; retiring from there, he went to Barrington, Georgia, and started a hosiery yarn mill, "The Hutchinson Manufacturing Company," General Arthur Hutchinson, president, who was quartermaster general under Joseph E. Johnston; retiring from this, and wishing a change for his health, he entered the employ of C. I. (Sarsaparilla) Hood, as traveling man, and remained with him nearly twenty years, traveling about thirty thousand miles a year, and since leaving Hood has been connected with daily newspapers.

CHILDREN.

1, Maud Elizabeth Johnson^o, born in Lowell, January 5, 1881. 2, Charles Barron Johnson^o, born in Waterville, Kennebec county, Maine, July 18, 1893.

47. SAMUEL JOHNSON^o, (11) [Elisha^s, John^s, Benjamin^s, James, Jr.^s, James^s, Edmund^s], fifth child and third son of Elisha^s, and second wife Rachel (Huse) Johnson, born in Knox, Waldo county, Maine, July 19, 1814; was married September 22, 1839, in Ripley, Somerset county, Maine, at the home of Cyrus Blood Jones, brother of his bride, where her mother lived (intentions of marriage published in Ripley, September 7, 1839), to Laura Ann, ninth child and fourth daughter of Jonathan and Betsey (Stanley) Jones, () born in Ripley, July 17, 1818, who died at the home of her son, Voltaire W. Johnson, in Alpha, Fayette county, Iowa, January 21, 1911. He died at West Union, September 26, 1878, and they are both buried in Bethel cemetery, Bethel township, Fayette county, Iowa.

His boyhood was about equally divided between the school room, where he acquired such an education that when a young man he taught several terms of school, and his father's shop, where he learned the trade of blacksmith; and at the time of his marriage established himself in that business in Freedom.

In 1846 he moved to Lewiston, Maine, and in company with his brother-in-law, John Emery, took a contract for grading on the Grand Trunk Railroad, on which they incurred so much loss that the surrender of their entire property was not sufficient to pay their indebtedness; so in the excitement following the discovery of gold in California in the fall of 1848, they sailed from Boston in the Ship "Capitol" (the first vessel to leave that port for San Francisco), for that far-off eldorado to retrieve their fortunes; the voyage via Cape Horn being a very stormy one they did not reach that port until the nineteenth of the next July, the thirty-fifth anniversary of his birthday.

On arriving home in January, 1851, his first care was to settle with his creditors in the railroad business, which he did to their entire satisfaction; he then decided to go to a new home in the west, and after traveling through several of the middle and western states, purchased a farm of six hundred acres in Green county, Wisconsin, and moved his family there in August, 1851.

During his residence there, of nearly eighteen years, he served the people continuously in either a township or county office, and at the time of his removal to Iowa, in 1869, was county commissioner to the poor.

On coming to Iowa, he purchased the sight of a water power, constructed a dam, and erected what has become so well known as "Johnson's Mill," around which has grown up the village of "Alpha," making it a very valuable property.

In 1876 he was elected a member of the board of county supervisors, and was in attendance upon public business when stricken with the illness from which he died.

He was a Republican in politics, from the organization of the party, voting for Freemont in 1856, and heartily affiliating with the party ever after.

He was for many years a member of the Masonic order, and at his death was an honored member of West Union Lodge Number 69.

He was a man of superior intellect and honor; a staunch and true friend, loved and respected wherever known.

Tribute to his estimable wife, of whom it may be truthfully said: "All sounds of life assumed one tone of love." Who, for thirty years, in her loneliness, kept the honor of his noble life unsullied, and the memory of his virtues undimmed, and left to their children the rich inheritance of their parents' noble lives.

Now, the earthly task being ended, the children place the mortal remains of the devoted wife, the faithful, loving mother, beside those of the husband and father; the honor of each life adds to the memory of all that is good and noble and great.

And some time, in the great beyond,
She may come to us again.

54. ELISHA F.^s, (61) born October 27, 1857; married Reubena Patterson.

55. VOLTAIRE JOHNSON^s, (48) born in Freedom village, July 29, 1840; he was a healthy, robust child, which apparent blessing led to his early death; when but little past three years old his energy took him into a pasture, where he began driving around some colts, and one of them kicked him over the heart, and he lived but a short time after, dying August 22, 1843.

56. VOLNEY L. JOHNSON^s, (49) born in Freedom village, July 29, 1840; married first, November 4, 1862, in Monticello, Green county, Wisconsin, at the home of William H. Coates [father of his bride], Ellen M., daughter of William H. and Jane (Morely) Coates, born in Susquehanna county, Pennsylvania, February 20, 1844; she died, at Alpha, Fayette county, Iowa, December 2, 1880; married second, at Fayette, Fayette county, Iowa, Mrs. Sarah Burrett, nee Sarah Van Sickle [divorced wife of A. R. Burrett, who now lives in California]; he died at Alpha, June 3, 1889, and he and first wife are buried in Bethel cemetery, Bethel township, Fayette county, Iowa.

Being born a twin, he was the slighter of the two, which frailty he never outgrew, and finally died of consumption before he was fifty years old, but the clear intellect, kindly disposition and gentility remained with him to the last; requesting the presence of his second wife, from who he had been estranged, dying at peace with all. Of the children born in Maine, his was the brightest intellect; learned easily, comprehended matters fully and had considerable musical talent; he commenced to learn the carpenter's trade under Andrew Johnson [his father's cousin] when but fifteen, though he attended school afterward, and in the winter of 1857-8 taught one term; then worked in a sash and door factory owned by his father and Andrew; leaving that, he enlisted in the band of the Fifth Wisconsin infantry in 1861; after being discharged from that service, he re-enlisted in the Fifth battery Wisconsin light artillery, serving in Sherman's army during its march to the sea, being mustered out June 6, 1865.

Upon the removal of the family to Iowa in 1869, he superintended the building of the houses and mill and continued with it until after his father's death; then going into business at Fayette; was appointed postmaster for one term, when his health failing he closed out, and never engaged in business again.

57. VOLTAIRE W. JOHNSON^s, (50) born in Freedom, September 12, 1843; married first, at Monticello, Green county, Wisconsin, Sept. 24, 1866, by Reverend J. Dinsmore, "Freewill Baptist Minister," Edgar Wright and Emily Bacon witnesses, Ella Frances, oldest daughter of Joshua and Survina (Cook) Crowell, born at West Yarmouth, Mass., October 30, 1847, who died at Alpha, December 2, 1880, and is buried in Bethel cemetery; married second, at Charles City, Floyd county, Iowa, September 22, 1888, by Reverend Coates, Mrs. Coates witness, Mrs. Almira C. Staples, nee Almira C. Rich, born in Malone, Franklin county, New York, July 16, 1848, daughter of Thomas and Matilda (Berry) Rich; widow of Merrit Staples; she died at Cedar Rapids, Linn county, Iowa, November 28, 1898, and is buried in Linwood cemetery at Cedar Rapids; married third, at Waucoma, Fayette county, Iowa, June 20, 1900, at Methodist Parsonage, by Reverend Daniel M. Parker, Sarah E. Parker and Charles S. Parker witnesses, Mrs. Ann Brayton, nee Ann Willis, born in Mt. Pleasant township, Green county, Wisconsin, May 1, 1849, daughter of Solomon and Lovina (Evans) Willis, and widow of Reuben Brayton.

He grew up on the farm and attended public school, obtaining the foundation of an education which has enabled him to acquire a thorough knowledge of affairs of life in many varied lines.

He enlisted before he was eighteen for the civil war, at Belville, Dane county, Wisconsin, August 27, 1861, in Company H of the Eighth Wisconsin infantry (the Eagle Regiment), and served three years, being discharged at Memphis, Tennessee, September 16, 1864, just after the Forrest raid into that city, having participated with his regiment in twenty-three battles, being all in which it had been engaged except one, from which he was prevented from sharing with them by sickness, having been slightly wounded at Abbeyville, Miss., on August 23, 1864, just four days before the expiration of his term of enlistment.

After returning from the army he carried on his father's farm until the removal of the families to Iowa in 1869, when he located on a quarter section of prairie land in Bethel township, which he fenced with smooth wire (forerunner of the present barbed wire so generally in use), which he farmed for several years, bringing it into a high state of cultivation, afterwards taking over the mill at Alpha, which he remodeled.

He was appointed to the office of county supervisor to fill out the unexpired term of his father, discharging the duties so acceptably that he was elected to the office for the next term, from which the requirements of private business compelled him to resign before the expiration of the term; and when, as alderman of Cedar Rapids, his official acts made him the logical candidate of his party for mayor his personal interests compelled him to decline to become a candidate.

After returning to Alpha he tended postoffice for several years, being deputy for his wife, she having succeeded to it upon the death of her first husband; but since the office has gone to others has entirely retired, devoting his time to caring for his little property and visiting his children and many relatives.

He is the largest in stature of any of the family, of a stern, forceful character; strong and clear of intellect; understanding all matters fully; discoursing fluently of events to intimates and friends, but with strangers is reticent and diffident; has been a most faithful and devoted son, caring tenderly for his mother when the infirmities of age pressed heavily upon her and her mental and physical powers gave way.

Has one child. 1, Margaret Emlin Putnam¹⁰, born near Carson, September 22, 1912.

58. GEORGE DANA JOHNSON^s, (51) fourth son of Samuel^r and Laura Ann (Jones) () Johnson, born in Lewiston, Androscoggin county, Maine, December 1, 1847; married in Minneapolis, Minnesota, April 29, 1875, by Reverend James McGolrick, pastor of Immaculate Conceptions, Catholic church, Halmer and Lucy Smith, witnesses, Mary Etta, seventh child and fifth daughter of Patrick and Mary (Mullen) Flanigan, born in Parishville, St. Lawrence county, New York, November 15, 1856. Before he was four years old his parents moved to Wisconsin, but he had contracted that insidious disease, "catarrh," so prevalent in cold localities and in the severe climate of that section, though it never reached a dangerous stage, his system was so disarranged that he was always lastive and slow, being classed as dull; so that, though he attended district school quite regularly, with occasional short terms of private instruction, never advanced far in education, and the unrest occasioned by the civil war, together with consideration of the plans of an older schoolmate, who was going to Minnesota which were the more readily reverted to because of his inability to comprehend the problems occurring in his studies, he ran away from home, in the spring of 1863, and in February, 1864, enlisted at St. Paul, Minnesota, in Company D, Brackett's battalion, Minnesota cavalry, and served two years on the western frontier against the Sioux Indians, under General Alfred Sully.

After being discharged he learned the printing trade in the office of the Glencoe Register, of Charles A. Bennett, since publisher of the Granite Falls Journal; then for several years lived in Minneapolis, where he married, worked for an express company, and clerked in different stores, and in 1885 moved to Texas, but not having success there returned to Crete, Nebraska, and worked in the mills there two years; then went to Colorado, exchanging Minneapolis property for land, but the supply of water for irrigation proving inadequate, misfortune still followed him, so he abandoned farming and followed public works for the next ten years, when the state of his health, and other circumstances, sent him to the Soldiers' Home at Leavenworth, Kansas, where, his health improving, he has been able to compile this family history and can be justly termed the family historian.

60. ADA ESTELLE JOHNSON⁸, (53) born in Mt. Pleasant township, February 4, 1854; married in West Union, September 6, 1875, by P. L. Hinkley, justice of the peace, James Ainsworth witness, Almer L., son of Philander and Eunice (Talcott) Davis, born in Rock county, Wisconsin, July 12, 1851; he is a carpenter by trade and lives at Ault, Weld county, Colorado.

She was educated in the public schools in the different localities where she grew up; she and the one who afterwards became her husband being the champion spellers among their mates; afterwards teaching several terms in Fayette county.

After her marriage her house was the gathering place for all members of the family, and the home of her mother until she herself became an invalid; and by their own selection other members of the family abided there; her oldest brother, when stricken with tuberculosis, returning there to die; and through lack of sanitary precautions communicated the disease to her daughter, who succumbed in a few years, and though contracting it herself, and at times being very low, still lingers, patiently enduring her cross, "content to live, yet not afraid to die."
